Most gracious God, ruler of the nations, we pray for the Parliament of this Commonwealth, for all new and returning members and especially for our new Prime Minister, Anthony Albanese. Direct their work and influence their decisions to the advancement of your glory, and the safety and welfare of this country, so that peace and happiness, truth and justice, may be established among us; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen. (APBA)

June 3rd - Janai Luwum, Archbishop of Uganda, martyr (d 1977)

Janani Luwum was born in a small Ugandan village in 1922 and is now seen as one of the most influential leaders of the modern church in Africa. He trained as a teacher and possessed uncommon leadership and negotiation skills.

Two years after Bishop Luwum's consecration, Idi Amin staged a coup and took over the Ugandan Government. The reign of Idi Amin is seen as one of the most brutal of all African dictators in modern history, one marred by immense suffering, violence and abuses of human rights.

Archbishop Luwum was a frequent visitor to Idi Amin, delivering letters of protest against the arbitrary killings and disappearances, so by 1977 President Amin had begun to see the church as an enemy of the state, and Bishop Luwum one of the main leaders.

In early February 1977, the tension between Idi Amin and Archbishop Luwum rose to an extreme level. Archbishop Luwum was accused of plotting with the former president to overthrow the government.

The President wanted to see him alone. What happened next is a matter of conjecture and speculation. Early the next morning the government released a statement that Bishop Luwum and two senior government officials had crashed their car while trying to escape. Bishop Luwum's body was sent to his home village of Mucwini for burial. He was survived by wife Mary Lawinyo Luwum and nine children.

Description

St. James' Anglican Cathedral hosts 60-minute long concerts on Saturdays at 4pm. The Concert Series started in May 2015 as a fundraising event for the Cathedral and a means to give local emerging artists performance opportunities as well as introducing them to the public. It has since become a popular pastime for audience and performers, running from early March through to November each year.

During NAFA 2022, there will be 4 consecutive Saturday concerts from 18 June. Local artists include: Aquapella & Umoja African Choir (18 June), Townsville Guitar Orchestra (25 June) and Lettuce Dance Band (9 July).

Rest in Peace!

You may have been wondering why I haven't been at church recently, and that's because I was at my school's musical rehearsals of All Shook Up, by Elvis. We have been rehearsing since August 2021, to finally perform last month in April. It was so much fun, and we sold thousands of dollars' worth of tickets. My favourite part was the dress rehearsal run, as we got to get all dressed up in our amazing costumes, with our hair and make up professionally done, and it was so fun!

School Chaplaincy Program

School chaplains support young people in one of today's most high pressure environments – the schoolyard. SU QLD chaplains provide a safe, positive influence for our children.

SU QLD chaplains, or 'chappies', provide spiritual and emotional support to school communities. They are in the prevention and support business: helping students find a better way to deal with issues ranging from family breakdown and loneliness, to drug abuse, depression and anxiety.

They provide a listening ear and a caring presence for children and young people in crisis, and those who just need a friend. They also provide support for staff and parents in school communities.

- More than 67% of Queensland State Schools have a chappy.
- That leaves around 400 state schools without a chappy!
- SU QLD has placed chappies in 63% of all Queensland state primary schools and in 88% of all Queensland state high schools.
- Right now, our chappies are serving more than 400,000 Queensland students

PRISON CHAPLAIN TRAINING DAY

Chaplain Ed Spriggins and Trainee Chaplains Bernice Good Chew, Neil Bruce and Leigh Kennedy attended the State Chaplaincy Training in Cairns early this month. There was also good roll up from the combined churches chaplaincy team from Townsville.

The Uniting Church manages chaplaincy in Queensland as Correction Services only wants to deal with one body for chaplaincy. The State Chaplaincy Board comprises board members from the churches that provide chaplains. We also met with our Anglican board member Sue Barker who is currently the minister of Childers Anglican parish. The conference dinner on Friday night was a good feed where we were able to meet other chaplains and chat

Saturday was a full on day of training. For many of the “old hands” there may not have been anything that new but for those new to prison chaplaincy there was a lot of useful information and tips. I actually took notes which is something I have not done since university days.

We learnt that it means a lot to prisoners that we are not being paid, don't have to be there and have given up our time to visit them especially as some prisoners never get a visit from family or friends. It was shared that the psalms are often the best place to start to deal with prison issues as they provide a scriptural base for dealing with prisoner's issues and for prayer with them. We also need to remember that all things are possible with God.

Cultivating trust is a key people skills competency. Extending trust involves risk and we need to keep anything said confidential. However we were reminded that there is a fine line between things said in confidence and reporting abuse and self harm. The session on our obligations and reporting abuse and self harm were confronting especially for people like me who grew up in safe Christian families with both parents at the helm. The contrast from my world experience to most prisoner's world experience is marked. It shows how much church values, Christian values, a good home and education provide the platform for a good life and the stark reality that most prisoners do not have this basic platform to rebuild on that we take for granted.

So the take away from the training is that the only way forward is Jesus. We as chaplains can't do this ministry in our own strength. No one person has the extensive skill set required to minister to prisoners. Only the Lord's transforming power can heal the prisoner and the circumstances that landed them in prison. Prison ministry is all about what the Lord is doing and letting him do the leading and not me. Just being there despite our inadequacies is what makes it all happen.

Neil Bruce

Honour for jail service

Chaplain's appeal for prisoners

TONY RAGGATT

WE really need to help people says chaplain Bob Down, who received a long service recognition award at Townsville's Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal breakfast event on Friday.

For Mr Down, who has just turned 84, that has meant helping people who have ended up in prison.

"It's a ministry of people – people who have needs in prison," he says.

"Most people think they are all bad people, but when you sit down with people and talk to people you find out that most people have a good heart.

"It's just that they've run into bad times and they just need someone to love them and that's what I find out with a lot of prisoners – they never had that love."

While the breakfast focused on domestic violence as a key reason why women and children became homeless, Mr Down also appealed for services to help people to get their lives on track when they get out of jail.

He said an organisation called Stressed tried to get people accommodated and help with services like Centrelink, but otherwise there was little or no help.

"When they get out they go back to their old environment because there's not enough on the outside to assist them and that's the reason why they end up back in jail," Mr Down said.

"We really need to help people, people who are in need."

Mr Down said people at the breakfast spoke about domestic violence because it was rife in the community, affecting one in four women during their lives.

"That's why we need to change people's thoughts and attitudes.

"And if we show them love or that people care, then I think that's a big thing," he said. Mr Down's award, in the form of a collection box, was inscribed with the words: "for service and dedication to the Salvation Army, with gratitude and appreciation from the Salvation Army Family and Townsville Community".

Would you know if God was trying to communicate with you? Can you tell if the Holy Spirit is giving you a nudge? And how could you be sure that it was really God and not just your own ego sending a message?

We may have learned a lot about God over the years, through Bible study, worship, sermons, Lenten studies and the like. And that's obviously vital for our Christian faith. But, it seems to me, that the church has often been less successful in helping us build a relationship with God, a friendship with our Creator, a friendship that involves two-way communication. And that's where Spiritual Direction can help.

The ministry of Spiritual Direction has a long and respected tradition in the Christian church. It has enjoyed something of a revival over recent decades. Townsville has been very much part of that revival, with the House of Prayer offering spiritual direction for over 40 years.

So what actually happens in a spiritual direction session? The director, who has specific training for this ministry, and the directee meet in a comfortable, confidential space. The director encourages the directee to reflect on the everyday happenings of their life - the highs, the lows, the joys, the challenges. The director listens - and listens some more. The director guides the directee to become more attentive to the presence of the sacred in their daily life. Most sessions are for about an hour. Anyone can "try" a one-off session, others choose to meet with their director on an on-going basis.

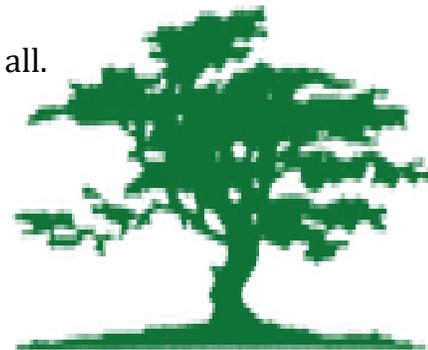

The word "direction" can be a bit off-putting. It sounds as if the director is telling the directee what to do, which couldn't be further from the truth. Spiritual direction is not counseling and it's not therapy. Put simply, someone who seeks spiritual direction recognizes that they are on a journey and wants to talk to a fellow believer along the way – and if that person is trained in spiritual direction, so much the better.

In my ignorance, I used to think spiritual direction was only for ordained clergy – or perhaps someone in a spiritual crisis. But I've discovered that it's for anyone. Anyone wanting to deepen their relationship with the Mystery we call God, anyone wanting to find God in their lives. It's not just for "religious" people, spiritual direction can be for all of us.

"God comes to us disguised as our life." Spiritual Direction helps to reveal this truth to us all.

I would be delighted to chat with you further about this ministry - or feel free to call the House of Prayer in Townsville. 4728 9861

Between the 1950s and 60's there was an old army hut next door to the Deanery (or Sub-Deanery as it was then)

It was probably moved there after the war and moved away in the late 1960's when the Curate's house (Frodsham House) was built. This is the present home of the Kennedys

The building was used for youth groups under Fr Tony Martin and Fr Tom Williams, and Girl Guides met on Friday night and Brownies on Saturday afternoon.

Do you remember this building? What was it named? Do you have any photos?
